2. Think of a leadership message you recently relayed. How did your message reflect the values you have identified?

3. If you were to relay that message again, would you change it? How? Why?

4. How are your values reflected in your leadership decisions and actions?

5. How well are your values aligned with the organization in which you work?

We use our values as a guide for how we lead. As leaders, there are times that we have the ability to use our discretion as to what we act upon and what we let slide. Aligning decision and behaviors with values builds congruency (or equilibrium) in leadership practices.
